This week's VoteTopic:

Before half term, we consulted you – the true Independent Learning experts – about whether learning has changed for good as a result of the pandemic.

Here's what you made of the question:

Will learning ever be the same again?

"Snow days will never be the same again. The days are gone of playing in the snow and sledging all day as work will be set on Google Classroom!"

Yes
51.8%

No
48.2%

"I think more adults will keep on learning new things than before, but schooling is always better face to face."

As for this week, we are focusing on Fairtrade Fortnight, which is running from 22nd February – 7th March. You will be exploring both the financial and environmental cost of fairtrade, by discussing the question:

Would you pay more for fairly traded products?

Discuss at home:

- How good do you think your knowledge is of where your food, drinks and other products come from?
- Do you buy any fairtrade products regularly? If so, which ones and why?
- What would be the main obstacle preventing you from going 100% fairtrade (e.g. cost, availability etc.)?

Student research points:

- Visit the Fairtrade Foundation website to find out which products are available at your local supermarket.
- Read the main principles of fairtrade and decide which you feel are the most important.
- Come up with an idea of how to make the general public more aware of the benefits of fairtrade (e.g. ads or products).
